

St Dominic's Class - Making Movies

In St. Dominic's class, children have been creating movies from School Journal stories. They have been engaged in the whole creative process from start to finish. First the children read the journal stories, then they created storyboards for each camera shot. Next they wrote the scripts and performed in the classroom in front of their peers. Then it was time to make the movie. This was done in various locations round the school, using the Quick Time application.

These stills are from the story 'On Target' by Feana Tu'akoi (see pictures).

Logan McAlister and Sebastian Clark wrote the script, with Sebastian directing. Other participants in the movie were Madison G, Scott, Jonathan and Kevin.

It was great fun watching and reviewing their work with the class. The rest of the class are continuing to create screenplays from stories this term.
